George the knight

George was a knight. He wanted to save the beautiful princess. She was stuck in a castle which was full of scary monsters. Then he met a donkey that could speak English.

"Hey George! I am your Fairy-God-Donkey," said the donkey. "You must get the magical sword which is in the middle of the lake. Oh! You need to drink the water in the lake too! You cannot fight the dragon until you get the sword." George really wanted to ask the donkey a bunch of questions, but the donkey disappeared in a flash.

After that, a breeze of wind went by and George teleported in front of the lake. He couldn't get the sword until he drank all the water in the lake. George drank all the water and he felt much stronger. He grabbed the sword and then he got teleported into the castle.

There was a fierce dragon in the castle. George stabbed the dragon. However, it turned into a lovely cat. George and the princess fell in love at once. "Hey, I'm Diana. Thanks for saving me," the princess said. George didn't reply, he just held the princess's hand. And they lived happily ever after.
